Computer Misuse

Last Semester, we observed some unusual activity with your AIT email account ogbugbu@ait.edu.gh. This involved the usage of your account in sending bulk messages to people. In this, you disguised your identity in order to solicit for funds across the globe. This act therefore caused serious internet usage traffic on our mailing servers. Hence our hosting partners decided to abrogate and terminate our usage of their services.

To resolve this issue, it took a lot of man hours as well a team of technical experts, both abroad and here to figure out exactly what was happening. It was finally discovered that your email account ogbugbu@ait.edu.gh was the one triggering and sending these bulk mails.

Hence after a thorough investigation, the AIT faculty committee have no doubt that you were the one involve in the usage of your email account to send those bulk messages. And since this amounts to a criminal offense, the committee after a thorough deliberation, decided on the following punishments:

- 1. Ban you from the usage of the AIT email system and account for the entire duration of the rest of your academic studies at AIT.
- 2. You will not be given access to the AIT LEMASS system for two semesters starting 2nd Semester 2009/2010. AIT after a period of observation we will decide to allow you to use the AIT LEMASS system if it is established that you have put on a good behavior.

The Faculty Committee is also of the view that should you in anyway carryout any act in the future that in anyway compromises the AIT computer and Internet system and resources you will be dismissed from the University.

We hope you are going to soberly reflect on this issue and turn a new leaf.

Thank you,
